Bleachers on Home Run

Baseball is not without its humorous side, despite the fact that the National Pastime is one of the most streamous of the present day sports. Lee Gooch, the pilot of the fast traveling Bichmond Colts, is authority for a questionable incident which occurred while the Bichmond team was playing in Safolk, but Luke Stuart, the Colts second baseman, confirms the following story:

Two negroes perched on the top row of the bleachers in Suffolk became enthused over the game and one offered to bet the other that "Ty" Smith, who was on base, would not score. A wager of ten pictures of Abe Lincoln wers made and the stake holder held out his hand for the money, Unraily had the "mauzuma" touched the hands of the holder when Jim Poole parked the ball over the fence.

Luke Stuart, who was standing near the negro bleachers at the time, avows that the regre who had suggested the wager, fell from the bleachers.

Gooch Plans to Remain Out Until Colts Lose

Out Until Colts Lose

Superstition runs amuck on any bail club. There are a great many managers who tack horse-shoes on the wall of the dugouts and there are quite a number who will not work a left-hander on Friday, but Lee Gooch, the Colts' pitot, has bent them all.

At this time the local team has won cight straight games and strange to say the manager has not played in any of the contests. Gooch's last appearance with the Colts was in the stateen-inning game the Norfolk Tars won from the local hoys by the score of 5 to 2, winning out in the last inning. The plint announces he does not believe in breaking up a winning combination, and stated yearterday he will remain out of the game until the team drops a confest.

Lee was about to enter the game here yesterday afternoon and asked Luke Stuart what the second sacker thought of breaking up the combination. Luke sadly shook his head and said, "Nothing Doing," and the manager announced that the line-up would be the same way.

CHAMPION JACK BRITTON
Philadelphia celebrated their star in Chicago with a clean record. They didn't win a game.

Greatest exercise in the world is to play in the outfield with a St. Louis Brown pitcher in the box. Benny Leonard, a famous moving picture star, is about to become a professional fighter, we are told.

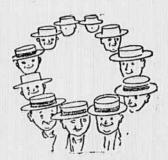

Pal Moore is said to be a very awk-ward fighter. Ask Jimmie Wilde, England's greatest. He ought to know something about it.

Mike O'Dowd, champion or no champion, is still to be found fighting every week or so. As a hall player, Jim Thorpe was the greatest half back that ever played in the National League.
